ERIC J. PAN
TO JOIN ROCK CREEK GLOBAL ADVISORS LLC

WASHINGTON, DC – Eric Pan, former Head of International Affairs at the US Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) and Head of International Regulatory Policy at the US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), will join international economic policy advisory firm Rock Creek Global Advisors LLC (RCGA) as a Managing Director.

RCGA team members in the United States and Europe advise many of the world’s leading companies. Founding firm member Daniel Price highlighted Pan’s leadership roles at the CFTC and SEC and experience with the Financial Stability Board and International Organization of Securities Commissions and in dialogues with counterparts across Europe and Asia.

“We are delighted to welcome Eric to RCGA,” said Price, former international economic policy advisor to President George W. Bush. “Eric was deeply involved in the negotiation of key international regulatory reforms and will be of enormous assistance to our clients.”

Former CFTC Chairman J. Christopher Giancarlo said, “Eric is a leading authority on global financial regulation, recognized and respected by regulators and policymakers around the world. He has been pivotal in regulatory debates of the past eight years helping shape international regulatory standards. Eric brings people together and delivers results. He is a strategic thinker who conceives of creative solutions to the most difficult problems.”

In addition to Price, Pan joins RCGA team members: Michael Smart, former international trade counsel on the US Senate Finance Committee; Barbara Weisel, former Assistant US Trade Representative for Southeast Asia and the Pacific; and Ambassador Jean-David Levitte, previously Diplomatic Advisor to Presidents Nicolas Sarkozy and Jacques Chirac, France’s Ambassador to the United States, and France’s Permanent Representative to the United Nations.

“I am truly pleased to be joining RCGA,” said Pan. “I look forward to helping RCGA clients successfully navigate the complex international regulatory and policy environment.”

Pan served in senior policy roles at the CFTC and SEC, advising the Chairs on regulatory priorities and engaging regularly with foreign counterparts in policy and technical discussions and in the negotiation of agreements. He also played a key role in OTC derivatives reforms, data and reporting standards, cybersecurity, market-based financing, market fragmentation, benchmarks regulation, commodity principles, and regulation of financial market infrastructures.

Pan holds a J.D. from the Harvard Law School, a master’s degree in European and International Politics from the University of Edinburgh, and an A.B. in Economics from Harvard College.
